BOMB FIRED IN VATICAN GARDEN

INTENDED TO WRECK FAMOUS CHURCH BUT SEXTON FOILS PLAN

Mussolini And Pope
Order Probe; Blame
Recent Dispute

VATICAN CITY, July 17.—A bomb explosion within the walls of the garden of the Vatican today woke Pope Pius and startled the Swiss Guards charged with his safety.

The bomb, which did no damage, was discovered late last night beneath a pew in St. Peter's, the first church of Catholicism, wrapped in a newspaper. It was taken to the police barracks of Vatican City where it was decided to place it in a secluded part of the garden until morning.

At 1:30 a. m. a terrific explosion aroused inhabitants of the Papal city. His Holiness was among those whose sleep was disturbed when informed of the bomb. He thankfully knelt in prayer.

Premier Mussolini, who had arisen early to attend the Italian air derby starting at four o'clock, was infuriated when informed of the explosion and ordered an immediate investigation.

If the bomb had not been discovered when it was, it would have probably wrecked the famous church toward which the eyes of Catholics throughout the world turn for inspiration.

Built by famous architects including Michelangelo, the cathedral is the largest in the world. It is full of art treasures of priceless value, including the paintings of Michelangelo in the Sistine Chapel and the frescoes of Raphael.

The explosion followed the bitter dispute between church and state over the suppression by Premier Mussolini of the Catholic Youth Societies because of alleged interference in internal Italian politics.

Many acts of fascist violence against Catholic Churches took place when the dispute began. The trouble was thought to have died down until the recent encyclical of the Pope declaring that fascism encouraged "Pagan Worship of the State" again stirred the fascists to wrath. This resulted in the denunciation of the encyclical several days ago as full of lies by the director of the fascist party under chairman of Premier Mussolini.

Today's bombing was believed to be the direct result of the fascist declaration.

The bomb, a cylindrical affair equipped with a clockwork device and weighing twenty-nine ounces, was discovered in the church late last night by one of the sextons of St. Peter's. Covered with yellow paper to disguise its purpose, the bomb lay close to one of the massive pillars supporting the dome of the church and only a few feet from the tomb of Pope Clement.

The sexton was making his regular round of the church when he noticed the suspicious looking package. Recognizing at once that it was a bomb, he took it in his hands and rushed out of the edifice, depositing the machine in an outlying part of the gardens where its explosion could do the least damage.

Hardly had he notified the Vatican authorities of the discovery when the bomb exploded with a terrific roar. The blast tore a huge hole in the grounds of the garden, uprooting beautifully cultivated plants and flowers and hurling fragments of its shell for a considerable distance.

The blast was heard throughout the Vatican City. Papal nobles and soldiers rushed to the scene, while His Holiness himself, startled out of a deep sleep, immediately asked for a full report on the incident.

TRIAL OF BANKER AWAITS DECISION

CLEVELAND, July 17.—Negotiations are being carried on between the state and federal government to determine which will first try William A. Miller, former president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank at Millersburg, on charges growing out of the bank's failure. Assistant U. S. district attorney admitted today.

McDermott revealed to International News Service that he spent part of this week in conference with Holmes County Prosecutor E. M. Estill. No decision about Miller's trial has been reached as yet but the government is going ahead with plans for a federal trial he said.

An indictment charging forgery of United States Treasury notes totaling approximately $75,000 will be asked of the federal grand jury at its next meeting in September, McDermott stated. He said Miller's trial would be started almost immediately if an indictment is returned.

"MA" KENNEDY WILL SHED NEW HUSBAND

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—Her annulment action against her new husband, Rev. Guy Edward Hudson, was characterized today by Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy as the first step to legally reclaim her "ideal spouse" from the other women who claim they have married him.

The annulment complaint set forth that when the mother of the famed evangelist, Almerie Temple McPherson, married Rev. Hudson, June 28, he had a former wife living, Mrs. Margaret Newton Hudson of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Kennedy signed the complaint in her attorneys office with Rev. Hudson gazing mournfully at the papers on the desk.

"I had no intention of violating the law," he said. "I am in love with Mrs. Kennedy and that's the only thing that counts. I am sure that what ever is necessary will be straightened out soon."

As soon as legally possible, "Ma" intends to remarry Rev. Hudson, she said. As she took off her new wedding ring, Mrs. Kennedy said, "two empty fingers now, but a heart still full of love."

Rev. Hudson explained that he understood Mrs. Newton had remarried and no longer used his name.

NORTHERN OHIO GANG WARFARE RENEWED; TWO FOUND KILLED

PRINCESS LEAPS TO DEATH

NEW YORK, July 17.—Emotionally depressed, Princess Anna Troubetzkoy, beautiful young daughter of Prince Alexis Obolensky, of New York, brought her honeymoon to an end by jumping to her death from Eiffel Tower, Paris, it was disclosed by her family today.

The princess, who was twenty, sailed for France in June with Prince Serge Troubetzkoy, whom she married here last May 14. Her fatal leap Tuesday came at a time when she was completing arrangements for a religious wedding ceremony in August in the Russian Orthodox Church, Paris.

An account of the tragedy was given by the girl's uncle, Prince Alexander Obolensky, in a trans-Atlantic telephone conversation with Prince Alexis.

REPORT OUTBREAKS IN GERMANY; RIOTS KEEP POLICE BUSY

Communists Raid Groceries; Economic Plight Clears

BERLIN, July 17.—While the economic situation showed signs of clearing, violence in many cities of Germany today kept the police busy.

Communist rioters and unemployed last night and this morning raided thirty grocery stores in search of food at Gelsenkirchen. The rioters erected barricades in the streets with paving blocks and extinguished lights. They threw stones and fired shots at policemen attempting to disperse them.

In order to prevent bloodshed, the police surrounded the whole quarter in which the rioting started and awaited daylight to round up those taking part in the fighting.

Similar outbreaks were reported from Coblenz and other places. German government officials were pleased today that President Hoover had again intervened in appointing Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to participate in the London conference of ministers called for Monday.

They also expected that the visit tomorrow of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius would produce good results. Belief was expressed that Secretary Stimson now in Paris had used his good offices to bring about the French invitation to the German cabinet ministers.

The invitation and the subsequent French statement indicated in German opinion that France was retreating from her stand and that she would no longer demand unceasing political guarantees in exchange for cooperation in a foreign loan.

Under Foreign Secretary Von Buelow, officials of the finance ministry and Dr. Vocke of the Reichsbank will accompany Chancellor Bruening and Dr. Curtius to Paris.

The German banks were functioning with ease under the emergency regulations today. Few depositors demanded more money than allowed under the decrees and foreign exchange appeared well under the control of Herman Schmitz, counselor of the German dye trust, appointed yesterday as dictator of foreign exchange operations.

Foreigners with travelers' checks experienced no difficulty in getting them cashed.

FASCIST SOLDIER SLAIN ON BORDER

ROME, July 17.—A fascist militiaman patrolling the Yugoslav frontier was shot dead today by an unidentified Yugoslav who escaped in the forest, according to news received in Rome.

It was believed today that Premier Mussolini would forward an emphatic protest to Belgrade against the shooting. Since the world war there has been friction between Italians and Yugoslavians and many violent incidents have occurred between nationals of the two countries.

Two Cleveland Men "Put On Spot" Near Toledo.

TOLEDO, O., July 17.—Northern Ohio gang warfare, which has claimed the lives of three hoodlums in the past few weeks, broke out anew with the murders of two men near here today, according to police.

Both of the murdered men were believed to have been Clevelanders. Aid of Cleveland police was enlisted in an effort to identify the two victims.

The bodies were found by an 18-year-old boy in a lane about a quarter of a mile from the Michigan-Ohio line. Both had been bound and gagged and shot through the back of the head and neck, police said.

Clothes worn by the men were purchased in Cleveland, according to Lucas County authorities. In the clothing of one of the men was a $70 check on the Central United National Bank of Cleveland.

Scarcely a mile away on the same road, police found an expensive sedan abandoned. The gang victims were believed to have been riding in the sedan and then "taken for a ride" by underworld enemies.

In the machine, police found a gasoline receipt made out to "M. Getzlein." The receipt was from a Shaker Heights, Cleveland, gasoline filling station, it was stated.

Residents in the vicinity of the murder scene told police that they heard nine shots fired early this morning. Police were informed that a machine sped away from the lane immediately after the shooting, headed for the Ohio-Michigan line.

The bodies were found lying about twenty feet apart. A short distance from the road were the coats of the men, apparently tossed out of the murder car by the slayers. Both men were well-dressed.

Coroner Frank G. Kreft, of Lucas County, who was called to investigate the shootings, stated that he believed the pair had been "put on the spot" by rival gangsters.

CLEVELAND, July 17.—Belief that the two men murdered near Toledo were Harry C. Getzlein and Al Jaffe, the latter a reputed liquor lord of Cleveland, was expressed by Cleveland detectives today following a hurried local investigation.

Information reaching detective headquarters revealed that Getzlein and Jaffe left here yesterday for Toledo on a business trip. Getzlein's wife stated that her husband had gone to Toledo with a friend she did not know.

The sedan found near the murder scene belonged to Getzlein, according to records at the Cleveland police station.

SECOND MURDER MYSTERY NOW PROVES PUZZLE TO LIMA POLICE

LIMA, O., July 17.—Authorities here were confronted with a new murder mystery today following the discovery of the body of an unidentified man, about 25 years old, submerged in eight feet of water under a railroad bridge in Ottawa River west of Elida.

The body was found during a search that was prompted when workmen reported the finding of a part of the man's skull near the river's edge.

Examination of the body was made by Coroner Frank Smith, who indicated his belief that the man was probably a victim of murder.

JACK DEMPSEY BROKE; PLANS FIGHT RETURN

Former Champ Spends Millions; Reported Badly In Debt

CHICAGO, July 17.—Jack Dempsey is dead broke and badly in need of a million dollars which he hopes to get through a desperate ring comeback, the Chicago evening American said today in a copy-right dispatch from Reno, Nev.

It was Reno, American's new "cradle of liberty," which caused the former heavyweight champion's financial downfall, the evening American story said.

Dempsey needs a million dollars—and needs it badly, it was said, and the only way he can get it is to fight for it.

The most famous of the ex-champions is desperate. It is altogether likely that he will stage a comeback, the dispatch said.

Dempsey figures he can get a million dollars by raising his finger and indicating he will go for another ring comeback, the American said.

Where did the money go? Has the fighter wentworth a fortune of $8,000,000, $10,000,000 can be blamed on his extravagant nature, it was said.

Jack wants to possess everything in sight, it is said. He doesn't wear a single piece of jewelry, but he loves to bedeck others. His lavish gifts to his wife, Estelle Taylor, were said to have been more than $250,000.

His stock market losses were estimated at $300,000. Friends say that his promotional schemes have cost him more than $300,000.

WORLD WAR AGE DIES

CHILLICOTHE, O., July 17.—I. G. Natcher, 41, of New Lexington, O., World War air ace and former district department commander of the eighth district, American Legion, died in the Chillicothe Veterans' Hospital today of organic heart trouble.

He had been dead about five or six hours, Smith said.

Efforts to identify the man were hampered when authorities found that the pockets of his clothing had been turned inside out. The only personal effects found in the clothing was a small penknife and upon this authorities pinned their hopes of identifying the man.

Discovery of the body came as authorities were still attempting to clear up the seven weeks-old murder mystery in connection with the deaths of Earl Truesdale, 20, and Thelma Woods, 17, whose bodies were found in a water-filled quarry pool on the edge of the city.

PLANE UNABLE TO STAY ALOFT DUE TO WEIGHT

Gasoline Load Too Heavy; Returns To Flying Field

NEW YORK, July 17.—The projected round the world flight of Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn ended in near disaster today when their heavily loaded monoplane failed to gain altitude after leaving the ground.

Starting at 6:32 a. m. (E. S. T.) from Roosevelt Field No. 1, Pangborn and Herndon piloted the huge Bellanca plane down the mile long runway. The plane, loaded with 830 gallons of gasoline refused to take the air.

At the end of the runway the plane shot down into a gully. The impact hitting the bottom of the gully gave the plane sufficient speed to raise from the ground.

A tangle knot of spectators held their breaths as the plane wobbled in the air. A stream of gasoline could be seen flowing from the reserve tanks as the pilots attempted to jettison the heavy load of fuel to lighten their ship.

Only expert piloting of Pangborn saved the lives of the two aviators.

Jockeying the heavy plane to keep it in the air Pangborn who was at the controls circled low over Roosevelt field No. 2 and brought the ship down safely.

As Pangborn stepped from the cockpit of the plane, Captain J. Nelson Kelly, manager of the field said:

"The flier thanked him and declared that they would make another attempt to take off this afternoon or tonight."

"This weather is too good to miss," he said.

Pangborn and Herndon seek to establish a new round the world speed record. They planned to take off from Roosevelt field, cross the Atlantic, continue over England and Europe to land at Moscow. From Moscow they planned to fly to Tokyo and from Tokyo to Nome and from Nome back to New York.

Third giant plane, loaded with more than 800 gallons of gasoline was capable of a 6,000 mile flight.

The near tragedy was witnessed by Herndon's mother, Mrs. Dixon Boardman and his fiancée Miss Mary Ellen Farley of Albany, N. Y.

RICHEST GIRL ON HONEYMOON

Bride Undisturbed By Extortion Plot

BELOIT, WIS., July 17.—Wisconsin's richest girl, Florence Yates, now Mrs. David Pennington Scobie since her wedding Wednesday, was honeymooning in the east today undisturbed by attempts to extort $15,000 from her on the eve of her marriage.

A note signed by the "Big Eight" gang, demanding the money, was received by Miss C. Haskin, Miss Yates' elderly chaperone after a threatening note had been received Monday, Rockford, Ill., and Beloit authorities lay in wait all Wednesday night trying to trap the would-be extortionists, but the police of Beloit as well as the fam-gangsters failed to appear.

Police of Beloit as well as the family tried to keep the incident a secret. Miss Yates was the sole heiress of $200,000 left by her father Porter B. Yates who was head of the Yates American Machine Company, makers of wood-working machinery. The parents of Miss Yates are both dead.

She was graduated from Beloit College last June at the age of 22. Her husband is a young broken in Chicago.

COAL STRIKER HELD AS ARSON SUSPECT

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., July 17.—A 40-year-old coal mine striker, George Husko, was under arrest here today following investigation by county officials of an attempt yesterday to burn a boarding house at the Provident mine of the Clarkson Coal Co.

Another strike prisoner was released yesterday when officials announced that no charges would be filed against Frank Sepish, secretary of the National Miners Union, who was taken into custody at the Crabapple Mine where a deputy sheriff said he was blocking the highway.

The strike situation has changed so much, Sheriff Howard Duff announced, that the force of 100 men he employed at the peak of the strike controversy has been cut to twelve.

Edison 'Hero' to Aide of Inventor for 50 Years

William Meadowcroft, 77, Just Recovered From Serious Illness, Is Back On Job He's Filled For Half Century

MEADOWCROFT and EDISON.

Rare it is to find the kind of true and devoted service personified by William H. Meadowcroft in his half century of association with Thomas A. Edison as his confidential secretary. This pleasant white-haired man of 77 years has grown old in the trusted employ of the "Wizard of Menlo Park," the while he has been a distinguished developer of decorative electric lamps, the first to experiment with the X-ray and a contributor to developments with electric signs. Rare with employee and employer, too, is the light in which Mr. Meadowcroft holds the noted inventor. "They say no man is a hero to one who is close to him. But this is an exceptional case." Those are Mr. Meadowcroft's words and they aptly describe the type of devoted service which he has rendered throughout 50 years of loyalty.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 16.—Half a century of loyal service rendered any man is a notable achievement of which anyone might well be proud, but William H. Meadowcroft, just past his 77th birthday, has the enviable record of having served Thomas A. Edison for fifty years as his confidential secretary.

Mr. Meadowcroft, a pleasant white-haired man grown old in the employ of the "Wizard of Menlo Park," is particularly in the news these days because he has just recovered his health from a serious illness which took him from Mr. Edison's side for five months. So now, once more, these two men far beyond their prime in life but both yet doing more than a normal man's work, are laboring side by side again as they have since 1881.

Although he has been overshadowed by the phenomenal achievements of his superior, Mr. Meadowcroft has been one of the greatest developers of decorative lamps in the country. He was one of the first to experiment with X-ray and he helped develop the first electric signs. But primarily, and with all the fervor of his being, he has lifted a tremendous load from Mr. Edison's shoulders by his painstaking efforts as confidential secretary.

Actually, Mr. Meadowcroft is "Prime Minister" of the little domain that the famous inventor has set up at Menlo Park, near here. He generally arises at 7 o'clock and motors to the Edison plant from his home in Boonton, N. J. He starts the day by opening the usual huge allotment of mail and dictates replies to letters of lesser importance addressed to Mr. Edison, reserves a few that he prefers to show the genius and follows a routine which would tire many less devoted individuals half his age.

Mr. Meadowcroft, interviewed concerning his long and faithful service with Mr. Edison, gave an insight into his companionship with the noted inventor which is poignantly interesting.

"I have always liked my job," said Mr. Meadowcroft. "It has always been a distinct source of pleasure. Mr. Edison's wonderful personality is quite impossible to sum up in only a few words. They say no man is a hero to one who is close to him. But this is an exceptional case. Knowing Mr. Edison intimately, as I do, I am still filled with amazement at his fertility and his tremendous persistence."

"It is an unusual and wonderful experience to have been privileged to live alongside Mr. Edison all these years. It is an experience a man cannot have with a lesser personality. One never plumbs Mr. Edison's depth."

Mr. Meadowcroft's modesty is apparent when he remarks about his being "privileged" to live alongside the electrical wizard. No doubt, it is a circumstance which should rightfully be styled a privilege, and yet, one must not forget the fifty years of service which he has rendered unselfishly to his "hero"—all the time perhaps subjugating his own inventive talents so that his labors might not be impaired in the service of his superior.

In no way detracting from the fame and renown of Mr. Edison, he has a splendid friend and advisor in the glowing personality of William Meadowcroft, a bulwark between the outside world and the inventor, the while being a trusted confidante and aide. If more men in places of outstanding importance were to be held in the light in which Mr. Meadowcroft holds Mr. Edison and had been served so thoroughly well, they, too, might be in a position to accomplish more from such ready and willing assistance as has been rendered by this true friend.

TOREADOR SHAGIN CHASES THE BULL; CAN'T GET CLOSE ENOUGH FOR TO PULL

PETER SHAGIN, motorcycle policeman, qualified Thursday as the official toreador of the police department.

Not that Xenia's traffic officer did any bull throwing to speak of, but, aided by two employees of the city, he did a considerable amount of bull chasing.

Came a telephone call at police headquarters in the morning from a woman resident on N. Galloway St., advising the guardians of the law that a bull was roaming about the vicinity frightening residents in the neighborhood.

Mounting his motorcycle—his red motorcycle by the way—Pete sped to the rescue. Delmer McCoy and his uncle, Waldo, both employees of the city, also drove a city truck to the scene and the chase was on.

Shagin came back for a rope but did not have an opportunity to use it.

Up one street, down another and through alleys the pursuit continued for half an hour until the self-appointed matadors got the bull headed back to the farm of Charles Hawkins, Fairground Road, several miles from Xenia from whence the animal had wandered out on the highway through an open gate.

Shagin has since contrived to make a lasso out of his rope and is now fully prepared to handle the situation should any more bulls disturb the serene existence of the inhabitants of the city.

Poems that Live

THE NOBLE NATURE
(From "An Ode to Sir Lucius Cary and Sir H. Morison")

It is not growing like a tree
In bulk, do make man better be;

Or standing long an oak, three hundred year,
To fall a log at last, dry, bald and sear;

A lily of a day
Is fairer far in May,
Although it fall and die that night—
It was the plant and flower of Light.

In small proportions we just beauties see,
And in short measures life we perfect be.

Parents must understand that because the child can read so-called "normal letters" across a room, does not prove the existence of efficient vision.

The "eyesight" test in the schools is often very misleading to the child who is not near-sighted or half blind;—particularly if the parent and teacher understand that because "normal letters" can be read across the room, the child has perfect eyes. This child may be more in need of visual aid than the child whose vision is below normal.

A thorough examination by a professional, trained Optometric eye specialist will relieve you of all anxiety concerning your child's eyes.

SCATTERED SHOWERS PREDICT RELIEF FROM BLISTERING SUN

By International News Service
Predictions of scattered showers brought a word of cheer today to many parts of a heat-stricken nation that has suffered for four days under a blistering hot sun.

Thirty-two deaths caused by heat prostration and drownings were reported during the past twenty-four hours in the Middle West and East. Hundreds of heat prostrations, however, were expected to swell the toll.

Temperatures in the Middle West generally hung about the 100 degree mark, and a hot, searing wind from the Nebraska prairies made the heat more oppressive.

Weather forecasters at Chicago predicted that cooling showers would come tonight or tomorrow to bring relief to many sections of the upper plains states.

Scattered storms in Ohio brought a degree of relief to parts of that state where eight persons have died since yesterday due to the heat, drownings and lightning.

RAILROAD SUED FOR $35,000 AS RESULT OF CROSSING ACCIDENT

Alleged permanent injuries suffered in a grade crossing accident at Osborn October 15, 1929 are the basis of a suit demanding $35,000 damages filed in Common Pleas Court by Minco P. Kolchek against The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway Co.

The accident took place at the Xenia Drive crossing and involved a southbound passenger train, which the plaintiff charges was traveling at the speed of seventy miles an hour through the municipal limits of the village, a rate characterized as especially excessive since the weather was dark and foggy.

The charge is also made that the signal devices guarding the crossing were not in operation and that the train gave no warning of its approach.

The plaintiff, the petition avers, sustained three rib fractures, broken left arm, permanent injuries to the left kidney, chest and back and his nervous system was shattered.

Describing himself as a healthy, able-bodied man earning $200 a month before the accident, Kolchek asserts he was unable to perform any work until last May 18 and that his earning capacity has been reduced one-half by reason of his injuries. He declares he lost all his wages during the period of his total disability and also incurred expense of hospital and medical bills. Attorneys F. L. Johnson, Young and Young, represent the plaintiff.

PARENTS PLEASED WITH FLIGHT

CINCINNATI, O., July 17.—The aged parents of Capt. George Endres, the Hungarian trans-Atlantic flyer, today started making preparations to welcome their intrepid son back to America and to Cincinnati.

The success of his flight with Capt. Alexander Magyar for "Justice for Hungary" assured John Endres, his 71-year-old father, and his mother now bedridden with cancer, that he will return here after nineteen years' absence, make his home in Cincinnati with his parents and become an American citizen.

"When the armistice was signed, he had twenty-four medals," his father said. Mrs. Endres proudly related that her son was chosen by Hungarian authorities to fly Kaiser Wilhelm to a train when the latter decided he would abdicate. "The Kaiser asked for a Hungarian pilot, being afraid to trust a German flier during his escape to Holland," she said.

"Yurga" is the pet name which Mrs. Endres has for her son. His flight, she said, marked the fifty-first anniversary of the birthday of his sister, Mrs. Catherine Sterbing, a Cincinnati resident.

HEAT CLAIMS FIRST VICTIM HERE; MRS. O. COBLENTZ DIES

Greene County's first death indirectly due to the excessive heat occurred Thursday evening when Mrs. Harriet Moore Coblenz, 50, wife of Orion Coblenz, died at her home, one and one-half miles north of Trebein on the Ankeney Road, at 10:30 o'clock. Death was due to an attack of acute indigestion brought on by the heat. Mrs. Coblenz had been in her usual health until she suffered the attack.

Mrs. Coblenz was born in Greene County, the daughter of J. P. and Margaret Ziegler Moore, and had spent her entire life in this vicinity. Besides her husband she is survived by the following children: Mrs. Elsie Jones, Beavertown; Miss Florence Coblenz, Springfield; Margaret, David and Fred, at home. Her father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Moore, Xenia, also survive besides the following sisters and half brother: Mrs. Grace Staley, Mrs. Nettie Harrison and Fred Moore, all of Dayton.

Funeral services will be held at the Second United Presbyterian Church, this city, of which she was a life-long member, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Friends will meet at the home at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be made in Beavertown Cemetery. Friends may call at the home Saturday afternoon or evening.

EMERGENCY BOARD VIEWS CONDITIONS AT O. S. & S. O. HOME

COLUMBUS, O., July 17.—With their attention particularly directed to a request for the creation of a $160,000 dining hall, members of the state emergency board today were to inspect conditions at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan Home at Xenia.

Those planning to make the inspection today were: State Finance Director Howard L. Bevis, Assistant Attorney General Earl C. Shively, Assistant State Auditor Church Broughton, Senator Robert L. Roho of Tiffin, chairman of the state finance committee, and Rep. L. P. Mooney, chairman of the house of representatives finance committee. The inspection, it was said, will be preliminary to a meeting of the board here early next week when consideration will be given to the request that authorization be given for the expenditure of funds for the construction of a new dining hall at the home. Officials of the Home declare that the present dining hall is in a "dilapidated and dangerous condition."

Before its recent adjournment, the state legislature deleted from the state's biennial appropriation bill practically all items for new buildings or other structures and betterments at the home.

COLUMBUS TEAM TO TACKLE MERCHANTS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Either W. Barrett or L. Myers will be on the mound for the Columbus White Halls when the baseball nine from Ohio's capital city appears at Washington Park Sunday afternoon for a game with the Xenia Merchants.

Winners of five out of nine games this season, the Merchants snapped a two-game losing streak when they won last Sunday, and their unexpected triumph over the previously unbeaten Thompson Printing Co. nine of Dayton cheered them in a big way.

With their revamped lineup functioning more smoothly than at any previous time this summer, the Merchants entertain high hopes of turning back the classy Columbus nine Sunday.

COMMITTEE PLANS TENTATIVE PROGRAM FOR COMMUNITY PICNIC

A tentative program of entertainment for the annual community picnic and outing to be held in Shawnee Park Wednesday, July 22 under the joint auspices of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs was outlined by a combined Ki-Ro committee at a luncheon-meeting at the Iron Lantern Thursday.

The activities will start at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon and will include a softball game at Cox Field, quoit pitching contests and other novelty stunts. Wives of club members have been assigned the responsibility of providing food for the supper to be served at 6 o'clock park.

on the cafeteria plan by members of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Another softball game will be staged early in the evening after which dancing will be enjoyed in the pavilion on the park plan basis. Roush's Rhythm Boys, popular Dayton orchestra, has been engaged to furnish music for the dance.

The committee making arrangements for the outing annually held as a benefit affair to raise money for Park maintenance, suggests that lodges and other organizations planning picnics for next Wednesday, arrange to have them in the park.

GUARD REORGANIZATION HERE GIVEN IMPETUS AT MEETINGS

Proposed reorganization of Company L, 147th Infantry, Xenia's Ohio National Guard unit with the hope of persuading young men of high standing in this city and vicinity to become members of the company was given initial impetus at a meeting at the Army here Thursday night.

The meeting was in the form of a smoker and included light refreshments.

Called for the purpose of acquainting desirable young men with the plan for a complete reorganization of the guard unit in order to raise the standards of the company by an almost entirely new enlisted personnel, the meeting, held in part to the extreme heat, was not as largely attended as sponsors of the movement had hoped.

A total of 293 young men eligible for membership in the company had been invited, but only a small number of prospective members were present, although of these few a majority evinced an interest in the project after they fully understood the movement.

Advantages of a first class military organization to a community were pointed out in speeches delivered by Lt. Col. Woellner, Cincinnati, executive officer of the

Suds Pry and Roll out Particles of Dirt, Says Mr. Alfred Stanford

Sudsy soap best

Chipso Makes 1/2 More Suds—Rolls out Stubborn Dirt Quickly

"Wise women will judge a soap by the amount of suds it makes," said Alfred Stanford, well-known laundry expert, in his laboratory in New York City.

"If I wanted to be funny" he said, "I could say this was the dirt about soaps. But I'm serious. Very few women know why one soap is better than another—or, in fact, why soap takes out dirt."

"Dirt lodges in the mesh of fabric. If you plunge dirty clothes in hot water, the meshes shrink and grip the dirt tighter. That's why a washing should start out with lukewarm suds. Suds act like a lever, they slip into the meshes, and pry the dirt out."

"The more suds a soap makes, the more quickly it lifts out dirt. In recent tests, I have proved that Chipso makes one-half more suds than any other leading household soap."

Soaps Harsh to Colors Hurt Hands!

"Don't use strong soaps," says soap expert

"Many women who wouldn't play with fire, risk the beauty of their hands with strong soaps," said Miss Hope Andrews, in an interview yesterday. "A soap that tends to fade colors is a strong alkali soap. It's bound to roughen the skin and split the cuticle."

"I always advise Chipso," she went on. "From my many tests, I know it's a rich, pure soap—safe for dainty colors and a woman's sensitive hands."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called. Art thou called being a servant? Care not for it; but if thou mayest be made free, use it rather.—I. Corinthians, vii, 20, 21.

THEY APPROVE

The administration's proposal of a moratorium on war debts contained so much promise that Democratic leaders did not dare to attack it. They applauded it instead; and now some of them are trying to annex it by asserting that it is merely an application of the internationalism preached by Woodrow Wilson. The assertion leans heavily on credulity.

The only Democratic or Wilsonian thing about the proposal is that it is a natural and inevitable consequence of the treaty of Versailles, which Wilson signed and the senate rejected.

An idea prevails among many Americans that Washington and the Federalists and their Republican successors are solely responsible for our traditional aloofness from Europe. That is not altogether true. It was not Washington but Jefferson, father of Democracy, who said: "Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none." The Federalist doctrine was stated by Washington in these words: "It is our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world. . . . we may safely trust to temporary alliances for extraordinary emergencies."

The essence of Woodrow Wilson's foreign policy was to entangle the United States in a permanent alliance with so much of the foreign world as was contained in the League of Nations. The moratorium proposal made by the present Republican administration is not an alliance and it is not permanent; and if it is entangling it is so because developments outside the control of any one country have brought the nations of the world closer together.

THE ANCIENT CAR

Many people are continuing to use old and badly worn automobiles, and are delaying to replace them until business turns better, or they get more pay.

How long does it pay to use a largely outworn automobile? Men of a certain type run them successfully for a very long period. If they are mechanically ingenious, they get a certain pleasure out of tinkering with them, and taking the wabbles and frictions out of their rusty joints. Some astonishing tales are told of the mileage which men of that type have been able to obtain out of cars which were sold for only a few dollars and seemingly were ready for the junk heap.

The more some others attempt to tinker their own cars, the worse they run. They take them to some garage and pay an expensive repair bill, and for a little time they run quite well. Then some new portion of their decrepit anatomy gives way, and again the owner is faced by a heavy repair cost. These charges may figure up as much as the depreciation on a shiny new car would amount to.

There comes a time when an ancient car becomes dangerous, for the ordinary person anyway. It fails to respond in emergency situations, and can not pull itself out of trouble. There is no economy in operating a car whose loose joints are headed for an accident.

Some happy-go-lucky people never fear the future, and they order a new car when they get tired of their old one, regardless of their financial outlook. Other over cautious folks nurse the old rattle-trap along, even if their means are ample for a new one. It would certainly help business along a bit at the present time, if some of these excessively prudent folks would forget their fears for a bit, and turn the old bus over to the junk man, or to someone who can keep it running himself. Like the ancient horse turned out to pasture in his last days, it has earned its rest.

BURYING REVOLVERS

Revolvers seized by New York police in one year recently were lumped into the ocean.

A casual glance at the news photograph, without reading the text of the lines, led one to believe that the content of a small arsenal was being dumped into the sea.

The bottom of the ocean is the best place for these weapons. They cannot be used for dangerous purposes there.

One wonders why so many revolvers should be sold in a country where there is little need for them. In frontier days, there was a good reason for carrying weapons, but that day has long since passed.

If the revolvers owned by persons in every community of the country were collected and destroyed by police, and if their sale were closely regulated, all of us would be better off. The average man has no need for a gun, and many owners, who bought revolvers to protect themselves, would not be able to use them effectively if they tried to shoot.

So long as revolvers can be obtained in an easy manner, criminals will be the best customers. The boatload of revolvers which New York police took from arrested persons in one year's time shows where one of the best markets for deadly weapons is.—Richmond Palladium.

NORMAL BUSINESS

When business becomes slow, many theorists become agitated, and clamor for startling new innovations, which are contrary to the habits of our people, and to which the country would adjust itself with difficulty.

That is much like a doctor who gives his patient some violent remedy that exaggerates his distress. What he often needs is rest and quiet, and mild treatment that removes obstacles to recovery.

So in regard to business. The needs of this time are not for radical and far-reaching changes, but for the removal of the more accessible obstacles to full prosperity, the cultivation of prudent and wholesome habits, and the avoidance of excesses, assisting our industrial system to work smoothly and naturally.

The United States government plan for postponement of foreign debt payments for a year, has generally been welcomed as such a policy. It hits at the depression that had settled like a dismal fog over much of the world. By letting rays of sunlight into depressed countries, it tends to spread hope and faith over the world.

The unfortunate tendency of our people to rush to extremes precipitates business disasters. When business is good, they set high, see no possibility of disaster, and go in for extravagant plans of expansion. Then when business turns slow for a bit, they lose faith and confidence, they say business will never be good, they refuse to buy goods, they lay off help, and business becomes worse because of panicky fears.

What this country needs is a spirit of calm moderation, that refuses to go joy-riding in times of expansion, and consequently is not loaded up with heavy burdens when business slows up. The same calm spirit refuses to go into the depths of gloom, and its cheerful confidence helps to maintain courage and faith.

MY NEW YORK

—BY JAMES ASWELL—

FEW NEW YORKERS KNOW—

There is a drug-store in the Times Building which does not sell drugs.

You can send your Pomeranian pooch from City Hall to Grand Central Terminal by mail—and get him there much more quickly than if you took him by subway or taxi. Pneumatic tubes are the answer.

Broadway is the longest street in the world. Beginning at the Battery it forges forward undiminished for 150 miles to the State Capitol at Albany—and then keeps on going until it gets lost beyond the Canadian border.

At 85 Cortland street there is a hospital for sick fish—and not the Broadway variety, either. Panhandlers pick up approximately $125,000 every day in Greater New York.

Li Hung Chang, the former Chinese ambassador to the United States, invented Chop Suey to amuse himself on a rainy afternoon. On the subway you can ride 28 miles for a nickel.

Hotels in New York accommodate 103,000 guests, but often during the summer there are 2,000,000 visitors in town.

A ship leaves New York every 40 minutes.

Every man, woman and child must pay or have paid for them $100 a year for the privilege of living in Greater New York.

CENSORSHIP NOTE

United Artists changed the title of the Zoe Atkins play from "The Greeks Had a Word for Them" to "The Greeks Had a Word for THEM"—the assumption being, no doubt, that the latter title was more "moral."

Which brings to mind the incident of the epidemic in Pago-Pago from the play, "Rain." Maugham called the disease measles in his short story; in the play it was cholera, and in the movie version with Gloria Swanson it was smallpox!

SIGHTSEERS

The other day a stylishly dressed honey moon couple hailing from all places, Chicago, approached Dr. Douglas O. Symmers in the hall of the City Morgue.

"We've been looking around the town," the young man said, "and we would like to see the bodies in the morgue—especially the bodies of gangsters."

Dr. Symmers' jaw dropped a bit, but he got himself in hand and courteously told the young man that his request was against the rules. The couple thanked him, sighed, and left.

NOT MARMALADE, EITHER

"I'm sending you a marmoset by the boat sailing today," a friend in Panama wrote Randolph Hall, who handles the Ripley program at the W.J. studio.

Mr. Hall, delighted, rushed down to the steamer to receive his pet. He was a little confused as to just what a marmoset was, however, so he carried a huge bird cage in one hand and a leash in the other. Confronted by the monkey he coughed and insisted the cage was "for a friend uptown."

WHEN THE DEW BEGINS TO FORM

We are in the country, far away from hot brick walls and pavements that take all night to cool off. The sun has gone down and grass, plants and leaves cool very rapidly. Dew begins to collect upon them. They act like a pitcher of ice water on the atmosphere when water collects on a hot day on the outside. The pitcher and runs down. The cool vegetation in contact with the air which has already arrived at the dew point—point of saturation but not of condensation—finishes the job making the saturated air give up its moisture in the form of dew. It is a misnomer to say the dew is falling. Dewdrops condense on objects below the dew point.

DEATH TAKES A HOLIDAY!

"COMPANY TOWNS" OF MINING DISTRICT PICTURED AS WRETCHED

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

(The sixth of a series dealing with the bituminous coal situation. The final two dispatches follow.)

PITTSBURGH.—Between the south's "company owned" textile towns and the "company owned" coal towns in the bituminous area there is a similarity and also a striking difference.

Both kinds of "company owned" towns are feudal.

Many of the textile type likewise are exceedingly wretched. In that respect they resemble all towns of the bituminous type.

Nevertheless, the worst of the textile towns are not so bad as the best of the bituminous towns, because in the former there always is some trace of a sense of responsibility on the part of the feudal lord for the welfare of his dependents, whereas in the latter the feudal lord appears to feel no such sense of responsibility whatever.

Yet wait. Mention was made a moment ago of the textile barons' special mindfulness of their dependents' spiritual improvement.

Of the unfailing certainty of their provision of at least one church for each of their "company owned" towns.

Is this, or is it not, one of the respects in which the coal barons resemble the textile barons?

As I asked the question, the Rev. W. G. Nowell, who was driving our car, looked at me and broke into a broad grin. Deeply tried by the industrial unhappiness of the Pittsburgh region, where he has his pastorate, the Rev. W. G. Nowell of the Hays (Pittsburgh suburb) Methodist church ordinarily is a grave-faced man, but at the idea of a coal baron concerning himself in relation to the working class' religious advancement he had to smile.

At that instant Executive Director Sidney A. Teller of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement of Pittsburgh, who was of the party (the baron was showing Director Teller, Executive Secretary Allan G. Harper of the Pennsylvania Civil Liberties committee and myself the sights of the Pittsburgh neighborhood's "company owned" bituminous towns) cried out in astonishment and pointed.

Look, however, in the Pittsburgh bituminous region for any evidence that the coal barons feel the slightest sense of responsibility for the welfare of the tenants in THEIR "company owned" towns, and you will look in vain.

Community centers? Hospitals? Libraries? Schools?—except those which the state furnishes at public expense.

Never a one.

Just miserable, ramshackle, hideous streets of hovels. No electricity, no gas, no sanitation, no running water—rickety, leaky, unpainted, tumble-down shacks; nothing more.

It suits the barons to keep their workers herded together on premises of the barons' own; it makes them easier to manage. Accordingly, the barons do provide shacks for the workers to live in—at good rentals in hand paid to the barons, of course.

Yet wait. Mention was made a moment ago of the textile barons' special mindfulness of their dependents' spiritual improvement.

The Rev. W. G. Nowell looked, and also cried out in astonishment. "Well, I'll be—blamed!" he said. "I never happened to notice that before."

Unmistakably it was a church. A "company owned" church, too, for it stood on "company property," and nothing stands on company property except what the company wants there, not even a visitor, unless his credentials are in order, and it behooves him to show them promptly, for when the company's guards make a mistake in repelling trespassers it occasionally is investigated by the coroner.

We piled out and approached the sacred edifice.

Around a corner appeared a deputy sheriff with a mashed nose, a cauliflower ear and a holstered pistol on his right hip, but Director Teller, who is of an imposing presence, told him he was a member of the Chamber of Commerce (as maybe he really is, for all I know) and the deputy greeted him deferentially, though heedfully.

It was a church, all right, but what a church! With a mashed nose, a cauliflower ear and a holstered pistol on his right hip, but Director Teller, who is of an imposing presence, told him he was a member of the Chamber of Commerce (as maybe he really is, for all I know) and the deputy greeted him deferentially, though heedfully.

The deputy could see we were curious, and explained.

It seems the inhabitants of the adjoining "company town"—the church's erstwhile congregation—had struck and been evicted some time previously. Before going they had stoned their house of worship, as a parting expression of their opinion of "company religion."

Speaking of deputy sheriffs—Until recently the coal companies ruled their towns and the countryside through a gendarmery known as the coal and iron police—a body paid by the companies, but commissioned by the state of Pennsylvania. Due to prolonged popular outcry and several homicides at the coal and iron police's hands, Governor Pinchot revoked this force's commissions July 1, leaving them with the standing only of private watchmen.

Real police authority is what the companies want, but they have arranged the matter. They now pay the sheriffs in the various coal counties so much per deputy that they desire and the sheriffs deputize them.

Many of these deputies still wear their coal and iron police uniforms.

"And I have seen them deputized in batches," says Secretary Harper of the Civil Liberties committee, "each one receiving a badge, a club and a gun, by sheriffs who did not even inquire their names."

"We shall try," added Secretary Harper, "to get a bill through the next legislature, requiring each deputy sheriff to have lived at least a previous year in the county he is to function in, and to show that he has not too recent a criminal record."

THE NAKED EYE PLANETS FOR JULY

Mercury is an evening star during July and August. It will reach its farthest distance (elongation) east of the sun August 8 (27 degrees 23 minutes). Splendid time to see it after sunset. It is in conjunction with the moon July 16.

Venus continues a morning star, but will be growing fainter as it is approaching the sun. It will be in conjunction with the moon July 14.

Mars will continue to be seen in the western sky journeying eastward through Leo and Virgo. Jupiter will be too close to the sun for observation. On July 25 Jupiter is in superior conjunction on far side of the sun. Saturn is retrograding in Sagittarius.

"First Aid" Suggested For Tootsies

—BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

There are certain parts of the body that break down simply from overwork, and of these the feet are the best examples. Disease of the foot occurs, but most foot troubles are the result of two things—the excessive strain of carrying the weight of the body, and shoes.

The amount of disability caused by foot trouble is incalculable. It has been estimated that 25 per cent of the population has something the matter with their feet part of the time, and 5 per cent all of the time, and in 1 per cent it is sufficiently serious to be crippling.

Another feature of the situation that makes for difficulty is that to rest the feet you have to rest the entire body. If there is something the matter with your hand or arm you can put it in a sling and go about your business. You can rest your stomach by not eating for a time and still manage to get about and do the absolutely necessary things. But if you rest your feet, you are laid up completely. And rest is one of the best remedies we have for anything.

The feet are subject to many troubles—wakening or breaking down of the ankles, corns, calluses, bunions, focal infection of the joints or bursae, actual deformities, such as club foot, are rarer.

Many of these troubles arise from wearing the wrong kind of shoes and stockings. Stockings should be fitted as carefully as shoes. If they are too short they have a tendency to produce ingrowing toe nails. Holes and seams as well as wrinkling cause spots of irritation. Anyone with tender feet or anyone subject to foot troubles should have right and left stockings or socks. Stockings should be changed daily.

Shoes, of all articles of clothing, should be the most exactly fitted and carefully selected. Few people have feet that are mates. One foot is usually larger than the other.

And the general shape of each foot, the tendency to corns and bunions, is different in one foot from the other. Yet people with foot trouble continue to buy two shoes of the same size. A shoe a little too large will cause trouble just as will a shoe that is a little too small.

The ideal shoe for a normal foot, best designed to keep it normal, is broad in the toe, snug in the instep and it should grip the heel and fit the heel very exactly. It should have a straight inner border. It should be the proper length which has been defined as "when the great toe joint rests in the seat of the shoe, which is that part of the shank provided for the ball of the foot."

FRAMED

The excessive dry weather may have been bad for the crops, or something, but it has been a boon for the local softball schedule.

Contrary to the early part of the season when game after game was postponed on account of persistent weeping on the part of the clouds, lately the long dry spell has made it possible to play off almost every postponed contest in each league through the medium of double-headers.

The American League schedule now up to date, with no more postponed games remaining to be played off, while in the National League only one postponement remains to be written off the books.

The solitary double-header in the offing at present is between the Gaham Paints and Wood's Barbers, scheduled for July 31.

Possibly reflecting the depression, only $20.81 was realized when a collection to replenish the nearly-empty treasury of the softball commission was taken among the fans at Cox Field Wednesday night. This sum will tide the sport over for three more weeks, at least, anyhow. Where the hint of depression comes in, however, is the fact that a large number of pennies were contributed when the hat was passed by solicitors.

The softball double-header, jam-boree and lawn fete arranged for Wednesday, July 29 at Paintersville is being widely publicized by "Atlas" Smith, who has had bills printed reading thusly:

"Lang Chevrolet, 1930 Xenia city champs, vs. Elk's Lodge Team of Wilmington, present leaders in Fraternal League; Paintersville Famous Autos, neither present nor past champs or leaders, vs. Downtown Country Club, present National League leaders, followed by a lawn fete sponsored by Paintersville Famous Auto Softball Team. First game called at 6:15 prompt. Something doing from then on 'til you say quit. Chicken sandwiches, hot dogs, ice cream, cake, pop, etc.—and everything a nickel. Good orchestral music. In the case of rain the same program will be carried out Thursday evening, July 30."

"Atlas" adds for general information that the money raised during the evening will be used to finance the softball sport in the Paintersville locality.

They finally induced Ohmer Tate, who occupies the mourner's bench along with John Bean and a few others at Cox Field, to umpire one of the games at first base the other evening. And what's more, none of the players disputed his decisions. The ex-sheriff, if you say quit, Chicken sandwiches, hot dogs, ice cream, cake, pop, etc.—and everything a nickel. Good orchestral music. In the case of rain the same program will be carried out Thursday evening, July 30."

The Giants' pennant drive seems to have been dented out on a merry-go-round. The New Yorks continue to circle the league cities but they're not getting anywhere.

Lou Gehrig is giving the old boy friend, Babe, and Chucky-Luck Klein of the Phils a knock-down-drag-out battle for the home run leadership. Our money rides with Lou. He ought to lead both at the end of hostilities as he alone is at the peak of his career.

Too late, the Pittsburgh Pirates have begun to play real ball. If they keep up the good work they'll be high enough in late September to see the pennant winner slide under the wire.

Rogers Hornsby, third baseman. That's the way the Cub lineup has been reading. But don't be too thrilled. Roze is an old hand at the bag. He toiled at that base in 33 games in 1915 and 22 in 1919 for the Cardinals. And he's been playing the sack as though it hasn't been 10 years since he last tried it.

Boston should erect a monument to Manager Shano Collins. He's convinced Red Sox fans for the first time in 13 years that baseball is still being played.

Just when some folks began to believe Coast league cities claim that they could make big time baseball pay, the far west circuit goes and splits the season. Further proof that the Coast circuit is still a minor league the directors have voted bonuses to first, second and third place clubs, thus offering an incentive to teams to battle for second and third as well as the pennant.

OVERCOME JINX AND BEAT KRIPPENDORF TEN FOR FIRST TIME

Pitchers' Battle Is Waged For Lead; Score Is 3 To 2

Phenomenon occurred at Cox Field Thursday night.

It was a memorable occasion for the All-Stars softball team. Destroying a jinx that has hounded them since the beginning of the season, the All-Stars ousted Krippendorf from first place in the American League by defeating the 1930 league champions, 3 to 2.

On four previous occasions this summer, Krippendorf had beaten the All-Stars, despite which fact the teams were tied for the leadership when they clashed for the fifth time Thursday evening.

The fifth time proved the charm, however, and the All-Stars, behind the masterful pitching of Russ Kimmer, moved into the uppermost position as the shoe-makers vacated the premises for the first time since the softball campaign opened.

The "crucial" contest was bitterly contested and Kimmer had just the necessary shade on Bob Luttrell, hurler for Krippendorf. Each pitcher parted with only seven hits, well scattered, and only one of the runs scored was earned in a legitimate manner that being a tally of the All-Stars in the third inning. Errors paved the way for all other counters on each side.

The seven safeties obtained by Krippendorf were spaced over as many different innings, while in only one stanza could the All-Stars group as many as two hits together, this being in the sixth round when a double and single failed to produce a run.

The All-Stars scored a run in the first inning on Blackburn's single and an error, added another in the third on a walk, another single by Blackburn, fielders' choice and an out at first, and tabbed what proved to be the winning marker in the eighth on an error and Blackburn's third single of the game. Blackburn, apparently, was just about the whole works.

Krippendorf's scoring was limited to one inning, the fifth, when a double by Gultice and two straight errors brought about two runs.

Blackburn, right fielder, was the ringleader in the batting of the new league leaders with three blows in four times up. He also scored two runs himself. Getting a double and single, Gultice, short fielder, was the only Krippendorf player to hit safely more than once.

The game was completed in the fast time of fifty-two minutes, courtesy of the Bulova watch.

The Lang Chevrolet have an opportunity to tie for the National League lead if they are able to beat the Criterion Friday night.

Still burdened with a heavy docket in his own court in Miami County, Common Pleas Judge Walter Jones, Troy, had not indicated when he will be able to announce a decision in pending injunction suits for and against a contemplated special referendum election on Xenia's electric franchise question. In the opinion of city officials it may be more than a month before a decision is forthcoming, although this, it was indicated, is a matter for conjecture.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

MAJOR LEAGUE managerial jobs in general seem to be safer means of employment this season than has been the case in recent years despite rumors that Boss Donnie Bush of the Chicago White Sox, Boss Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins, and Boss Jewel Eas of the Pittsburgh Pirates, may be serving their respective clubs for the last season.

All other managers seem to be more or less secure in their current posts.

Inability of the White Sox to better their standing in the American league race despite glowing prospects in spring training camp makes things look precarious for Bush.

En has been unable to halt the gradual slide of the Pirates, who have been on the downgrade since their last pennant, in 1928.

Robinson is enjoying temporary popularity among Brooklyn fans because of the Flatbush Flock's current pennant drive, but another failure to win the flag probably will see Uncle Wilbert on his way out.

ALONG ALL other baseball fronts the generalissimo seem to be getting along and probably will succeed themselves.

Rogers Hornsby has been a disappointment, so far, with the Cubs, but his ability has been proven, and the Chicago ownership probably will give Hornsby enough time to prove whether or not he can win for the Windy City. Again, letting Hornsby go as manager would be, in effect, admission by the club that it made a mistake in permitting Joe McCarthy to leave.

McCarthy, too, has had his woes with the Yankees, but Colonel Jake Ruppert has confidence in Joe as a builder of pennant winners.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 17.—Except for a feeble spurt at the opening, the stock market today made little or no effort to reflect the favorable turn of events in the foreign markets. German government bonds added from 1 to 4 points to yesterday's closing rallies and the foreign exchanges were all strong in anticipation of a satisfactory termination of Germany's internal financial troubles.

The industrials and utilities moved up a point or so in the first period, but before the end of the hour the early gains were wiped out by profit-taking and professional selling. There were some exceptions to this rule, the steel, automobile and mercantile stocks making the best showing. Chrysler led the rally in the motors and moved ahead more than a point to 23 1/2.

Ad. S. Steel was in good form around 35 1/2, up 1/2. McKeesport tin advanced 2 1/2 to 82 and Sears Roebuck was up 1 1/2 to 55. General Motors was unchanged at 37 1/2.

CITIZENS MOVE TO RESTRAIN VILLAGE

A temporary restraining order enjoining the village of Fairfield from removing certain light poles, wires and fixtures from a street intersection in the town has been granted in Common Pleas Court.

The injunction was sought in a suit filed by Henry Lipp, Walter Rager, Charles Rager, Wesley Koogler and Amelia Lipp, as citizens and taxpayers of Fairfield, who claim that irreparable damage will result if the municipality carries out its plan to remove the lights from the intersection of North Alley and Main St. Attorney H. D. Smith represents the residents.

The Battle Line

It is too light a thing that thou shouldst be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the preserved of Israel: I will also give thee for a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the earth.

—Isaiah 49:6.

THERE is today no real line between Home and Foreign Missions. The cleavage is between Christianity on the one side, and on the other side, materialism, paganism, exploitation, industrial and social wrong, wherever found. This line cuts across all lands. On every front Christianity is challenged by its foes. Defeat in China is as bad as defeat in America; advance in the foreign sector as important as in the home sector; support of the "missions" field as strategic as support of the local Church. Let the entire Church of Christ be upheld!

Subject—"SOCIAL SERVICE IN THE EARLY CHURCH."
Golden Text—"He himself said: 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"
Scripture Reference—Acts 4:32-35; 6:1-4; II Cor. 9:1-7.

The Early Church is described in these passages as having multiplied greatly. Thousands had believed really in the new religion and most of them were centered around Jerusalem. On account of their difference from the usual religionist in Judea, they were forced to become a big family. None were wealthy, but many owned property and lands. These they sold and brought all they had into a common treasury. The word says "they had all things in common." These early Christians did not want any thing more than the necessities of life, so they put all of their property into a common lot and each man and woman and child, received as they had need.

Sometimes this early Christian arrangement, through necessity of the persecutions, along with the nature of their profession is listed as a "communism." This is often used as the classic illustration of and argument for—any sort of communism. The community of early Christians was more like a large family. As such they enjoyed the fellowship with only the necessities of life for each one. It was not a relationship of "grasping" but giving." Ever one sought to help every one else.

Granting that these Early Christians were a little better than some Christians since, and that they had as much or more grace than since, they could not keep up the "communism" without trouble. The Greeks were critical of the arrangement, because they thought that the local Hebrews received more than they. When this controversy came to the ears of the Apostles, they called a meeting and had the people elect seven men. These seven men became the first board of directors of the Social Service League of Jerusalem, or Red Cross of Christianity. These seven men were called Deacons. They were not supposed to preach but one of the fine preachers of this day came from that group and also was the first Christian Martyr, Stephen. The Red Cross today becomes the organized Christian effort in our community. The Community Chest is a way for all the City to contribute to need causes.

The lesson closes with a statement by the Apostle Paul wherein he states the essential points of perfect giving for the help of people. He states it this way—"Every man according as he purposed in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver.

It is better, perhaps, to start the seed in a seed bed, cold frame or hot frame. But many gardeners do very well sowing the seed in a flower border where the plants are to bloom.

A few of the herbaceous perennials that do well when grown from seed are the Shasta daisy, feverfew, columbine, sweet william, rudbeckia, Canterbury bell, blanket flower, phlox, platycodon, hollyhock and delphinium.

A light, mellow, well-pulverized soil, mixed with one-fourth of its volume of thoroughly decomposed manure, is excellent for starting the seed. To cover the seed by about four times the smallest diameter of the seeds is a good rule in most cases. Firm the earth over them. Use a fine sprinkler in watering and avoid washing the soil and exposing the seed. Some gardeners cover the bed with cheesecloth to guard against disturbing the soil when watering. The covering, however, should be removed when germination starts. A cheesecloth covering, eighteen inches or so high, may be used to protect the tender seedlings from the full sunlight.

When the first true leaves form, transplant the crowded plants. Remove carefully with the earth firm about the roots, and cover with a temporary shade until they are established.

The large flowering herbaceous poppy should be sown where it is to bloom, as it does not stand transplanting very well.

CANE, LATEST STYLE

SAN FRANCISCO—One more thing for those who go in for "last cries" to worry about. A walking stick for ladies now carries a cany case in the handle. The handle has a mirror, rouge, lipstick and other accessories concealed. A spring releases a tiny door in the top of the cane, and milady begins her art.

The Theater

By LESLIE FORGRAVE

Distance, it would appear, still lends enchantment, or something. Young people all over the world yearn to crash the cinema gates, but only six girls and three boys out of Hollywood High School's graduating class of 491 would like a motion picture career.

Maybe, being too close has caused them to rub the gift off the lilies. The last mid-winter class of graduates did not boast a single candidate for the studios. In times gone by this school, located in the center of the film capital, has been a rich field for star material.

Among the more recent alumni who have won success are Fay Wray, Alice White, Mary Brian, Karen Morley, Frank Albertson, Marian Marsh, Gladys McConnell to write about Hollywood for a national magazine. While abroad she wrote and helped direct thirty-two (32) magazine educational films. Playing bridge in Santa Barbara over the weekend, Marie Dressler drew thirteen spades, and she didn't bid no trump. . . . Anna May Wong, the Chinese movie actress and Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese film actor, are returning to the screen in the same picture, "The Daughter of a Dragon." It is the Jap's first experience in ten years and his first talkie. For his picture's sake, Joe E. Brown travelled from Hollywood to Lincoln, Neb., to run 100 yards against Frank Wyckoff. The film is the old Nugent favorite, "The Poor Nut."

Twenty Years '11-Ago-'31

Mr. Harry Sohn, of Sayre and Hemphill's, spent the week end at Columbus and Circleville.

Dr. D. D. Jones, of Athens, who recently purchased the old Thrall drug store on E. Main St., took charge of the business Monday.

Mr. Harvey Coates left for Detroit to spend several days. Harvey is one of Xenia's original admirers of Ty Cobb, the star Detroit baseball player, and it is probable he will spend most of the time at the ball park.

A handsome Indian head in pastel, by John E. Daly, Xenia, road foreman of engines on the Pennsy railroad, is on display in a window of the West Book Store.

Akron, Huge Battleship Of Skies, Takes Air Soon

U. S. Navy Dirigible Los Angeles and German Graf Zeppelin Are Dwarfed by New Monster of Heavens.

COMM. CHARLES E. ROSENDAHL • U.S.S. AKRON NEARING COMPLETION

Although the great, silvery U. S. Navy dirigible Los Angeles and German globe-trotting Graf Zeppelin have rightfully received their share of attention, the people who have craned their necks at these monsters of the air haven't seen anything yet. The U. S. S. Akron, the American Navy's "biggest and best" dirigible, is rapidly nearing completion at Akron, Ohio, and soon will take the air to bring a new thrill from out of the heavens. Greater in range, power and safety, as well as many other features, than either the Los Angeles or Graf, the Akron will prove the pride and joy of the nation after it is launched as the Navy's new $2,500,000 flying battleship. Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, a veteran in the dirigible service, will command this great Leviathan of the skies.

AKRON, O., July 16.—Many a neck there has been craned skyward at such imposing monsters of the heavens as the U. S. Navy dirigible Los Angeles and the German Graf Zeppelin, but the people who became stiff-necked and eye-sore from looking for and at these great bags of gas and steel haven't seen anything yet.

There are those who think thrills from out of the skies are at an end, but their skepticism will be blown skyward when the U. S. S. Akron, "biggest and best," as circus posters are wont to boast, is launched soon at the city which bears its name.

Great in size and accomplishments as the Graf Zeppelin is, the Akron will dwarf it in actual measurements as well as in remarkable feats, if its builders and commander-to-be, Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, know anything about it. And there isn't much they don't know about dirigibles.

of 6,500,000 rivets anchor the frame. Three corridors, or gangways, extend most of the length of the Akron, and are easily accessible to the commander, a factor which greatly increases the safety of operation.

Another revolutionary feature of the Akron is the enclosure of the eight motors within the hull. The use of helium permits this to be done with safety. The stronger framework absorbs the load as a part of the ship, which weighs 203,900 pounds without gas, fuel or crew. It is possible to carry 31,300 gallons of fuel in its 100 gas tanks.

A marked improvement in the Akron is its swiveling propellers. These can be swung in a 90-degree arc, which, since the engines are reversible, give the huge ship a vertical thrust, either up or down. This greatly simplifies landing and starting problems due to atmospheric conditions or heavy load.

Lieut. Commander Rosendahl, as commander of the sky-monster, has the task of developing her to full efficiency as a military machine. To a great degree, the part which she will play in revolutionizing modern warfare must, of necessity, devolve itself on Commander Rosendahl.

Incidentally, when one's aboard the Akron they're in the Navy and nowhere else. The control car is the "bridge," the floors are the "decks," the walls of the ship are "bulkheads," the dining-room is the "messroom," up on top is "top side," and the kitchen is the "galley."

The many new features incorporated into the Akron place it in a celestial sphere all its own. The American Navy is proud of its new $2,500,000 flying battleship, and when the giant craft is launched within the near future and citizens of the land are given an opportunity to view it, they, too, will acclaim it as the "biggest and best."

XENIA CHIEF SEEKS STATE POSITION

Police Chief Ozni H. Cornwell makes no secret of the fact he is a candidate for the vacant post of assistant superintendent of the Bureau of Research and Investigation in Columbus, but declared Friday that his ambition to land this position dates back for more than three years. Chief Cornwell recently conferred with John McSweeney, public welfare director, about the position.

GRASS BURNS

A grass fire along the Springfield branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad on N. Detroit St. was the excuse for the sixty-eighth run of the year made by fire apparatus at 2:10 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Sparks from the locomotive of a passing train ignited the dry grass along the right-of-way, firemen reported.

300,000 Patients!

Three hundred thousand patients, no competition within miles and miles, yet ailing persons have to be enticed into the office by the judicious use of beads and gaudy trinkets. That's the unique prospect confronting Dr. R. T. Unruh, above, who has just completed his internship at Wichita, Kas. He has signed a contract to become mission doctor in the Belgian Congo, near Lake Inongo.
